Fifth Floor

Floor Plan: Fifth Floor

General Layout The floor consists of two primary sections: a long, horizontal corridor at the bottom labeled the Bar, and a large circular area above it labeled the Drum. The elevators and main stairwell are located at the central junction where these two sections meet.

Navigating the Drum (Facing into the circle from the Elevators) If you stand at the elevator junction facing toward the center of the building:

- The Center: The middle of this circular area is a large, open space labeled the Drum.
- To Your Left: The left half of the circle houses the Campuswide Honors Collegium, which includes the Locus Lounge (510) and a series of smaller offices (519–523).
- To Your Right: The right half of the circle houses the Undergraduate Research Opportunity Program (550), along with two dedicated study lounges.
- Straight Ahead (Far Side): At the very back of the circle, two hallways lead to the Gerard Reading Room and private study rooms (526–533).
- Restrooms: Inclusive restrooms are located at the far "top" corners of the Drum, near the entrances to the Reading Room corridors.

Navigating the Bar (The Horizontal Corridor) If you turn and face the long corridor at the elevator junction:

- To Your Right: This wing contains iLab A (570) and iLab B (571). A print kiosk and a drinking fountain are located in the hallway just outside these labs.
- To Your Left: This wing contains the Collaboration Zone (577) and a VizWall station. At the far end of this hallway is the Loft Study Zone (586).
- Facilities: Standard men's and women's restrooms are located immediately adjacent to the elevators at the center of this corridor.
